THE YEARBOOK OF THE CLASS OF 1968

VASSAR BROTHERS HOSPITAL

POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK

DEDICATION

To Mrs. Champlin,

One who represents all that nursing is:

Naturalness

Understanding

Resourcefulness

Sincerity

Interest

Neatness

Gentleness

We express our appreciation to you for not just being an instructor, but also a friend. For contributing to our success in achieving our goals.

Class of 1968.

Today, nursing stands at the cross roads. Its functions are being analyzed and its educational program is undergoing close scrutiny. As professionals, we should welcome evaluation as an important aspect of professional life and recognize its usefulness as a tool to stimulate progress and effect change.

But this is not a new phenomena, for we have experienced change since the days of the Crimean War. It is because of change that the nurse today must have skills beyond the laying on of healing hands.

Understanding and sympathy are still important qualities, but added to these there must be understanding of the total patient—his personality, his family setting, and his particular needs, plus an ability to carry out complicated techniques.

Our FUNCTION as nurses has not changed, but over the years, as our responsibilities increased, our tasks have been delegated. We have elected to utilize medical aids to assist in giving patient care. Because of the variety of preparation of auxiliary personnel, the nursing profession has assumed the responsibility for coordinating the efforts of this group. Thus evolved the concept of the nurse as a leader.

This role belongs to the professional nurse and carries the responsibilities inherent in leadership.

To fulfill this role the nurse must be intelligent, knowledgeable in the physical and social sciences, able to problem solve, and aware of group process. All of these require involvement in a continuum of learning.

These qualities enable the professional nurse to provide the highest quality care through team nursing.

The role of the nurse, therefore, has not changed, rather, nursing function has expanded. This expansion of services provides an exciting future for those involved in service to mankind. It also provides a challenge, for it mandates the development of certain attitudes: a willingness to explore new ideas and concepts, and to contribute to the solution of these important problems.

Dear Mom and Dad,

I am embarking upon a profession of which I am very proud to be a member. It is not enough, dear parents, to say thank you for giving me this pride.

It has been through your early guidance that I can now meet the obligations and responsibilities which my profession has bestowed upon me.

It is also through your inspiration that I have come to know the value of the lives to which I give my service.

We thank you for enabling us to appreciate the value of human lives and a way of serving them.

Lovingly yours,

The Class of 1968

Men In White

Women in white are kindly souls
They help mankind endure
But let us not forget the men
Who help effect the cure
Male nurses are a Godsend to
This world of strife and pain
For they relieve the pressure where there is the greatest strain
The great nursing profession
Needs dedicated souls
And those who choose to follow it
Must set the highest goals
Too bad there so few men
Who like this noble labor
Nurses are God's helpers
Truly mankind's neighbor
I remember the medics in the war
Who were both brave and strong
Our country needs male nurses
This fact is far from wrong

WHAT IS A STUDENT NURSE?

Student nurses come in all sizes, shapes and caps. They are found everywhere, on top of, running around, jumping over, or slithering past patients beds. Doctors yell at them; interns tolerate them; residents overlook them; mothers worry about them; and patients love them.

A student nurse is courage under a cap, a smile in snowy white, strength in a starched uniform, and energy that is endless. Just when she is gaining poise and prestige, she drops a glass, breaks a syringe, or steps on a doctor's foot.

A student nurse is a composite. She has the speed of a gazelle, the strength of an ox, the quickness of a cat, the endurance of a flagpole sitter, and the capabilities of a Florence Nightingale all rolled into one blue uniform.

To the head nurse, she has the stability of much, the fleetness of a snail, the mentality of a mule, and is held together by starch, adhesive tape, and strained nerves. To an alumnae, she will never work so hard, carry more trays, and make more beds, or scrub for more cases than her predecessors.

A student nurse is Faith with a hypo in her hand; Hope with a patched uniform; Love with her hair clipped short. She likes days off, boys her own age, Psych, field trips, certain doctors, pretty clothes, her roommate, Mom and Dad, and yes, her nursing school. She's not much on days off—with classes. She dislikes alarm clocks getting her up for roll call, and chicken every Tuesday.

No one else looks forward so much to a day off, or so little to working 4 to 12. No one else gets so much pleasure from straightening a wrinkled sheet or wetting a pair of parched lips. No one else gets such satisfaction in fluffing a pillow, applying a bandage, or easing the pains of a patient.

A student nurse is a wonderful creature. You can criticize her but you cannot dishearten her. You can hurt her feelings but you cannot make her quit. Might as well admit it whether you are head nurse, doctor, chaplain, or patient—she is a hardworking, determined young woman, doing her best for her patient, her school, her hospital, and her God. She may not be glamorous, intriguing or sophisticated but she is young at heart—and a shining example of the American Way.

Whenever she becomes discouraged or the lamp gets too heavy, she should remember that there is a reward waiting for her. Because surely, some of God's angels wear white caps instead of halos, and carry medicine trays instead of harps. And when hours are long, studies are hard; when fatigue and lonesomeness are on her threshold, she is re-inspired by looking forward to the day when she can proudly say—

I AM A NURSE!

A DREAM FULFILLED

CHARLOTTE LAMBERT

Its absense felt by all
For one who passed among us went
To answer her God's call

We ask ourselves and others why
The chosen one was she
Yet although the answer lies somewhere
We look, but cannot see

She stood there on the threshold
Of womanhood
A girl of but eighteen
And suddenly she had quietly left
A world she had never really seen

So in sorrow we shall stand together
And for her soul we pray
And ask the heavens for understanding
For a light left us today.
